

State and Law in the Course of Time 2021

International and interdisciplinary conference with a broad scope of topics that would like to welcome not only legal historians, which form the core of the performers, but also legal experts in other fields of law, historians, archivists and other professionals whose academic field of research is also involving the development of state and law since its beginning till present time. The aim of the conference is, in contrast to a number of narrowly thematically focused events, to enable participants to present the results of their current research and at the same time to provide a platform for the widest possible meeting of experts interested in the history of law and related fields.

Due to the situation caused by the spread of COVID-19 disease caused by coronavirus SARS-CoV-2, the faculty was forced to cancel last year's conference with the next conference taking place in 2021. However, the development of the pandemic situation shows that in the traditional term it will not be possible to hold a conference in a face to face form neither this year. Nevertheless we do not want to break the tradition and so we decided to maintain the continuity of these meetings, at least in the form of peer-reviewed proceedings. We believe that at least this form will interest you and you will support the continuation of the tradition of our Pilsen conference meetings with your contribution.

We would therefore like to invite you to participate in the publication of printed peer-reviewed proceedings
